CHOOSING A CAREER

Hello!

There are so many careers to choose from, how do you decide which one is right for you?

You should always start with the career that best matches your skills and your interests, even though you're just a kid. Many people are born with natural talents and they develop those talents over a lifetime. Try paying close attention to the skills and talents you have that seem to make it easier for you to achieve certain things compared to other kids your age. Whatever that is, it could be the key to a successful career!
